

PAGE & TURNBULL

imagining change in historic environments through design, research, and technology

POSITION: DESIGNER | LOS ANGELES OFFICE

Page & Turnbull is looking for an architectural designer to enhance our team at an award-winning, 10-person architecture and planning office in downtown Los Angeles. This opening will provide the opportunity to use and build skills in architecture and historic preservation. The position offers exposure to a range of challenging projects, with the early possibility of self-directed work and client contact.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Assist colleagues with field investigations and conditions assessments of historic buildings.
- Prepare preliminary design and feasibility studies.
- Prepare construction documents, including development of architectural details for Rehabilitation/Restoration/ Reconstruction of historic buildings.
- Perform Construction Administration tasks, including construction site visits; preparation of field observation reports; and tracking and review of submittals and requests for information (RFIs).

REQUIREMENTS

The ideal candidate will have:

- A professional degree in architecture, preferably with coursework or demonstrated interest in historic preservation.
- Three-to-six years professional design experience, preferably with historic buildings or with integrating new design into existing contexts.
- A strong design portfolio, experience assembling contract documents, and good writing ability.
- Past professional experience with and good working knowledge of Revit, AutoCAD 2017, Sketchup and Adobe Creative Suite.
- Communication and time-management skills for effective teamwork, with the initiative and problem-solving abilities to take on tasks individually.
- An interest in professional registration, LEED certification and ability to combine sustainability with historic preservation.

Salary is commensurate with experience.
